1. What are cookies?

Cookies are small text files that the websites visited by the user send to and store on your computer or mobile device, before being sent back to the same websites at the next visit. Precisely thanks to the cookies, the website remembers the actions and preferences of the user (such as, for example, login data, the chosen language, font size, other display settings, etc.) so that they do not need to be entered again when the user visits the website again or browses from one page to another on it. The cookies are therefore used for IT authentications, session monitoring and the saving of information regarding the activities of users accessing a website. They may also contain a unique identifier code that can keep track of the user’s browsing within the website for statistical or advertising purposes. When browsing a website, the user can also receive cookies from different web servers or websites to that being visited (“third party cookies”) on their computer or mobile device. Some operations could not be carried out without using cookies, which in some cases are therefore technically necessary for the website’s actual function.

There are various types of cookies, depending on their characteristics and functions, and they can stay on the user’s computer or mobile device for different lengths of time: session cookies, which are automatically deleted when the browser is closed; and persistent cookies, which remain on the user’s device until a pre-established deadline.

In accordance with current legislation, use of cookies does not always require express user consent. More specifically, “technical cookies” do not require consent, i.e. those used only in order to transmit a communication on an electronic communication network, or to the extent strictly necessary to provide a service specifically requested by the user. In other words, these are cookies that are essential to website function or necessary to provide the activities requested by the user.

For “profiling cookies”, on the other hand, i.e. those aimed at creating user profiles and used to send advertising messages in line with the preferences expressed when browsing the Internet, prior user consent is required.

2. Cookies used on the Website.

The Website uses cookies for the correct function of the Website and for the provision of the services it contains, to understand and improve the user's browsing experience.

In particular, the Website uses:

- technical cookies, i.e. navigation or session cookies, strictly necessary for the functioning of the Website or to allow you to use the contents and services you have requested (condition of lawfulness:

execution of a contract or of pre-contractual measures, i.e. browsing the Site and using its contents and services);

In detail, the following cookies are on the Website.

Cookie name	Purpose	Cookie type	Duration	Source and origin of cookies	Information recorded	Cases where it is used	Subjects with access to the information stored in the cookies
i18n_puiatti-website	To serve up content in the stored language	Technical cookie	1 year	website	Language setting	Whole website	Angelini

The semantic coding of cookies ("Cookie name") is that adopted by the cookie providers ("Source and origin of cookies"). The cookies category of belonging is indicated in the "Cookie type" column.

3. Categories of recipients of personal data

For the purposes indicated above (in the table referred to in paragraph 2), your personal data may be communicated:

- to persons authorized by the Data Controller to carry out personal data processing operations (employees or collaborators of the Data Controller);
- to the Processors appointed by the Data Controller (providers of computer, technological and telematic services);
- to other autonomous data controllers (indicated in the table referred to in paragraph 2).

Your data may also be transmitted in accordance with the law to tax authorities, police forces and judicial and administrative authorities, for the detection and prosecution of crimes, prevention and safeguard from threats to public security, to allow the Data Controller to establish, exercise or defend legal claims, as well as for other reasons related to the protection of the rights and freedoms of others.
